

Milk Dealers Visit Health Board, Ask To Have Milk Law Amended

Wholesale Price of Milk Advanced Cent a Quart, and Dealers Did Not Want to Pass Increase on to Customers.

ACTION DEFERRED

Dealers Asked Privilege to Return to Use of Old Style Milk Caps But Board Defers Action.

A delegation of milk dealers of the city attended the monthly meeting of the Board of Health Tuesday evening and Pratt Boice, acting as spokesman for the group, urged the board to amend the new milk ordinance which required the use of what is known as lip caps for milk bottles and that the dealers be allowed to use the plug cap style of caps for B grade milk. Mr. Boice said that the wholesale price of milk to the dealer had been advanced one cent a quart and that the dealers did not desire to pass the increase in price on to the customer.

In seeking to avoid advancing the price of milk in Kingston, Mr. Boice said that the dealers asked the assistance of the board in being permitted to use the plug cap on bottles containing Grade B milk. He said that other cities in this territory were using the plug caps, and that the lip caps were only used on Grade A milk, as required by state regulation. The lip caps cost the dealer $2.15 per thousand, said Mr. Boice, while they could purchase the plug caps for 52 cents a thousand. By using the plug caps they would effect a saving which would enable them to maintain the present milk prices.

Mr. Boice asked that the board take early action in the matter.

Dr. Joseph Jacobson, a member of the board, moved that the question be referred to the milk committee to investigate and submit a report at the next meeting.

Mayor Heiselman, who presided at the meeting, suggested that the motion be amended to have the milk committee investigate and submit a report as quickly as possible, and that when the committee was ready to report he would call a special meeting of the board to take action. The amendment was accepted and the amended motion adopted.

Mr. Pratt said that would be satisfactory, and the delegation of dealers then left.

The reports of the officers of the board were filed.

London, Oct. 14 (AP).—King Edward scrapped another royal precedent today—the annual Christmas message broadcast to the empire. The British monarch made known, through his secretary, he does not intend to follow his father's custom. King Edward, concluding the ceremonies on Coronation Day, May 12, 1927, however, will broadcast a message to his empire. The broadcast will be his first official act as a crowned king.

Weather Man Says State Will Have Warmer Days

(By The Associated Press)

Update New Yorkers shivered from unseasonable cold for the third consecutive day today but the Weather Bureau promised rising temperatures tonight and tomorrow.

At Owl's Head, traditional "ice-box" of the Adirondacks, a new unofficial low record for October 14 was set when the mercury dipped to 12 above zero. The ground was frozen to a depth of three inches and pools of water were covered with a thick coating of ice.

"The crest of the cold wave is now over western New England," the Albany Weather Bureau reported. "Temperatures will start to rise late this afternoon and tonight and there will be a decided rise tomorrow."

An official reading at Bloomingdale, near Saranac Lake, where the Weather Bureau maintains a station, was 18 during the night and 26 at 8 a. m. this morning. At Albany it was 41 at 8 a. m. and at Canton 32.

1898 Boiler in No. 4 School Goes Way of The One Horse Shay

Board of Education Finds Ancient Heater Broken Beyond Repair and Orders Bids For New Boiler

At a special meeting of the board of education held Tuesday evening for the purpose of taking action on repairs to the heating system at School No. 4, the board authorized the building committee to advertise for the installation of a new boiler for the school to replace the present boiler which has been in use since 1898 and which has become useless.

Trustee Byrne for the building committee stated that the boiler in No. 4 was found to be leaking this fall when fire was started. Some time ago a section was found to be leaking and that section was cut out and now two more sections had gone bad. These sections had been repaired a few years ago and had again failed and had to be cut out by Mr. Elmendorf, the school mechanic.

During the discussion as to whether it would be advisable to again make temporary repairs or purchase a new boiler it was stated that some time ago when the boiler went bad the inspector had stated he would pass it for another year but would have to condemn the boiler.

Having been installed in 1898 the board felt the boiler had served its time and being of an obsolete type it would be impossible to purchase parts in the market. It is a sixteen sectional type.

Mr. Byrne said the building committee desired to have the opinion of the board before going ahead as it was a question of repairs or a new boiler. The committee favored a new boiler.

Trustee Katz inquired about the advisability of installing oil in the school. Trustee Byrnes said it would be more expensive than coal fire and Trustee Hutton inquired as to the advisability of installing a stoker and using small size coal. The present boiler handles pea coal.

The consensus of opinion was that it would be a waste of money to try and repair the present boiler. The estimated cost of a new sectional boiler will be about $1,000 to $1,200.

On motion of Trustee Katz the building committee was empowered to advertise for bids for a new boiler suitable for the building. Seconded by Trustee Hutton and adopted.

Trustee Schmid moved that Mr. Elmendorf be empowered to hire a heating engineer to figure on the requirements and also ascertain the radiation required. The man will be a local engineer.

The board then adjourned until its regular meeting on Friday, October 23.

Trustees Feeney, Kearney and Hinchbrook were absent.

Philippine Death List Placed at 408

Manila, Oct. 14 (AP).—The death list from the Philippines' most disastrous typhoon jumped to 408 today. Little hope was held for 600 others, reported missing.

Reported reports from the San Narciso district of Zamboanga province, northwest of Manila, said 150 miners were trapped and drowned in a wall of water which swept down on them as they were crossing a river.

Fears of famine and pestilence assailed the stricken areas.

Food supplies virtually were wiped out along the Pangasinan river valley, north of Manila.

From the stricken region came urgent calls for vaccine to fight the dread disease of the Orient—cholera.

Detroit, Oct. 14 (AP).—Henry Ford formally declared his support for Gov. Alf M. Landon today as the Republican presidential nominee pursued a cross-state campaign for Michigan's 19 electoral votes.

"I admire and believe in him; I hope he is elected," the motor car manufacturer said in a statement after conferring with the Kansas governor.

"I am not criticizing the New Deal," Ford continued. "I am only saying that we have had enough of it, we have had about all the country can stand."

The veteran industrialist, who talked with Landon together with his son, Edsel, stated his position for the first time just before Landon headed his campaign forces toward Grand Rapids.

The candidate said the New Deal was a "threat to our American form of government" in an address last night before thousands massed in the chill wind-swept American League baseball park.

Concentration of power in the hands of President Roosevelt, Landon said in the third major address of his lake-states campaign, represented the "first steps" toward destruction of the "rights and liberties of the people" which would make the executive "all powerful."

Challenge on Amendments

Promising, if elected, to ask repeal of all laws giving autocratic powers to the chief executive, Landon called upon his Democratic opponent to "tell us before Election Day just what amendments to the constitution he has in mind."

Landon continued: "By his silence on this, he is attempting to dodge the fundamental issue of this campaign—the issue of whether he intends to change the form of our government—whether labor, agriculture and business are to be directed and managed by government—directed and managed by politics."

"It is the first duty of government to protect us . . . from the abuses of concentrated power. . . . If the federal government does not have the authority . . . I shall favor Congress going to the people openly and ask for such powers through a constitutional amendment. The people must be given full opportunity to debate the issues involved before they take the momentous step of changing the charter of their freedom."

Ford Pictures Landon

Ford pictured Landon as "a businessman who knows how to make both ends meet." And who "ate out of a dinner bucket for years and still thinks along with the men who carry dinner buckets."

"I gained three very distinct impressions of him," the tall, thin automobile magnate said. "First, he is exceptionally well informed and has experience along many lines; second, he is able to speak his mind in the frankest possible way—he is open and honest in his opinions; third, he knows where he stands because he has thought things through."

"Governor Landon's mind has not been warped. My judgment would be that he would be a hard man to turn from the American way of doing things. . . . He knows the difficulty of the job before him but he believes he can make adjustments that will help everything move along more smoothly. I think he can."

Turning to the social security law Ford said "What disturbs me is that the New Deal is now making to the workmen the same impossible promises that it made to the business man."

Raps Security Fee

"I doubt if American mechanics are going to regard $15 a month 25 years from now as very much 'social security,'" the capitalist said. "New Deal wages were always the lowest possible because they were set at depression levels. And now 'social security' is defined at the level of about 50 cents a day 20 years from now."

"Everybody must know that it doesn't mean anything." "Pretending to create security for a selected class in an insecure system is a cruel joke—especially when you take their money for it."

Ford said New Deal "intentions may have been good but its performance was very poor."

"As a manufacturer," he said, "I have been its special target for about three years, but I don't hold that against it—it has kept me thinking. All of us have to thank the New Deal for keeping us on the alert for our country."

Without naming Ford, Landon drew applause in his open-air speech when he said the automobile industry "resisted" NRA and "one of its most distinguished leaders never signed the code of the Blue Eagle."

Initiative, Energy, Frugality

"What built the automobile industry which has done so much for the country and its people," Landon asked, "The very qualities that this administration holds up to scorn—American initiative, American energy, and American frugality. Yet today we are told that initiative must be controlled, that energy and hard work must be restricted, that saving has become a crime against society."

Contending that "Congress in effect gave up its constitutional powers" so that Mr. Roosevelt "has been able to accomplish indirectly what the Constitution forbids him to do."

Germany Bolsters Lines Ready To Launch Final Of Fortifications Around Land And Air Attack Borders on Land and Sea On San Martin Today

Ten Gun Bases Started on Helgoland Island, Harbor Being Rebuilt; Charges Hurled Against de la Rocque Today.

LITVINOFF BLAMED

In London High Soviet Diplomats Consult with British on the Spanish War.

Berlin, Oct. 14 (AP).—Bristling lines of concrete fortifications and artillery emplacements are rising around Germany's borders today.

Ten gun bases have been started on rocky Helgoland island off the Schleswig coast while workmen speed construction of other forts along the western and southeastern frontiers.

In addition, the Helgoland marine harbor, destroyed by the Allies after the World War, is being rebuilt.

Most of the Helgoland defense bases have been located on top of the rocky island point where four large emplacements have been built and guns already moved into place. Half a dozen smaller gun positions are under construction in other sections.

Island tourists are still permitted to explore the old part of the town and the outer edges of the rock but defense officials have prohibited visitors from making photographs or sketches. Armed guards are stationed throughout the zone and one road leading to the center of the island is blocked to the public.

Residents Evacuated.

Barracks for defense forces have been constructed and residents around the island's largest light-house are being evacuated to make way for additional military and naval construction.

The work of fortifying the other borders of the reich has proceeded under strictest secrecy—particularly along the French frontier on the west and the Czechoslovakian frontier on the southeast.

The Rhineland and Black Forest defenses have been described in official statements as disconnected "pill-box" strongholds opposite the elaborate concrete and steel fortifications on the French "Maginot" line.

Fort construction has doubled the volume of the German cement industry in the last six months, business surveys show.

Coincident with the defense preparations, a campaign of public education against spies has been inaugurated by the Nazi government. German citizens are constantly reminded of the danger of disclosing defense facts to foreigners.

"Putsch" Is Charged

Paris, Oct. 14 (AP).—Premier Leon Blum's newspaper, Le Populaire, charged today that Col. Francois de La Rocque had stored automatic rifles, machine guns and tear gas bombs to arm his Rightist followers.

As the cabinet met amid Rightist charges that Russia, Communists, aided by the presence in Paris of Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinoff, are trying to provoke Franco-German strife, the newspaper said at least 1,000 automatic rifles had been accumulated here to arm the "shock brigades" of the leader of the disbanded Croix de Feu.

The tear gas bombs and machine guns, in great numbers, have been gathered together in the provinces, Le Populaire said.

Le Populaire accused De La Rocque of preparing a "putsch" to bring into power by violence "an ideal which is repugnant to a majority of the French."

It contended some American submarine guns were among the arms assembled by the Rightists, which, the newspaper declared, were purchased by funds advanced by rich adherents.

Arms Allegedly Smuggled

Most of the arms were alleged to have been smuggled into France across the Swiss and Belgian borders. There also were a number of German machine guns in the lot, the newspaper added.

The fresh accusations followed disclosure of the presence in Paris of Litvinoff since Monday. He was reported to have come to the French capital from Geneva, following the League of Nations assembly session.

The Rightist newspaper Piccolo, asserting the Soviet official was traveling "incognito," commented: "Moscow's emissary is not indifferent."

Government Troops Claim to Have Penetrated to Commanding Position the War Ministry Reports.

Insurgents Say Attacks Have Been Repulsed, They Claim a Gain of Three Miles.

Madrid, Oct. 14 (AP).—Swept by wintry winds, government troops looked forward for the order to launch a "final land and air attack" on San Martin De Valdeiglesias today.

Advance lines of Socialist militiamen have penetrated with 500 yards of the church commanding the Pelayos road, Sergeant Major Leon Garcia reported to the war ministry.

(Reports from the insurgent side of the line declared a government attack had been repulsed in the sector 40 miles west of Madrid and Socialist troops driven back three miles.)

Fresh activity was reported during skirmishes in the Toledo sector where, the ministry reported, government militiamen drove Fascists back five miles.

The engagement was reported centered around Moejon, a small village northeast of the insurgent base at Toledo.

Additional reports claimed advances by Socialist soldiers to the outskirts of Bargas, five miles north of Toledo on the highway to Madrid.

The gain was made during heavy fighting and artillery shelling, the reports said, but the government troops were ordered to retire eventually.

No Bombing Planes.

Military circles discussed the "unusual absence" of Fascist bombing planes during operations near Bargas and Ollas Del Rey.

Some interested persons advanced the belief the planes were needed for bombardments in Oviedo and Cordoba provinces, where military campaigns have been proceeding for weeks.

The war ministry laid claim to fresh advances in Oviedo where government troops are attempting to drive Fascist defenders from the far northern city.

The Socialist warriors, the ministry asserted, have cornered insurgents in a cathedral and barracks. Heavy shelling by government guns was being concentrated on the Fascist havens, it was claimed.

In Madrid, the government announced its "gratitude to the Soviet" for stocks of food sent to the capital from the proceeds of a public subscription among Russian citizens.

The supplies arrived when rationing of all food in Madrid had become necessary because of dwindling stocks.

Some reports, which could not be confirmed, said a flotilla of German torpedo boats was anchored in Spanish waters together with 12 submarines. The location of the fleet was not given.

The commissioners of appraisal are Augustus Shufeldt of Kingston who was elected chairman of the commission on motion of George G. Brooks, seconded by George W. Report Sentiment Favors Stadium on Fair Grounds Site

There was a good attendance at the regular meeting of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, held at the Governor Clinton Hotel Tuesday night, and a considerable amount of important business was transacted.

The chief business of the evening was the discussion of the project to build a municipal stadium in Kingston. It was reported that hundreds of replies had been received to the questionnaire printed in The Freeman recently and that out of all the replies there were but four against the proposition—and but two of these were definitely against it.

The committee appointed to investigate the matter of a stadium, interview the members of the various organizations and civic bodies in the city and sound out public sentiment generally, brought in most encouraging reports. It was reported that almost without exception the Fair Grounds are favored as the site for the proposed stadium. It is understood that at the present time the Fair Grounds can be purchased for a very reasonable sum.

Other business of the evening included a discussion of plans for a membership drive in the near future, and a committee was appointed to make arrangements.

William F. Bleakley Attacks Roosevelt as One Who Recommends Unconstitutional Legislation with Audacity.

PEOPLE'S RIGHT

Declares Constitution is "People's Right" Not That of an Executive to Alter.

En Route with Bleakley Campaign Caravan, Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Oct. 14 (AP).—William F. Bleakley, Republican candidate for governor, carried his campaign into traditionally Republican county today with a renewal of his attack on President Roosevelt for what the nominee called "ignoring the constitutional limitations."

"No President of the United States ever had such audacity to recommend so much unconstitutional legislation," Bleakley said, "and I hope there will not be another President who will."

"The constitution is not weak," Bleakley asserted. "It is strong. It is the people's right to do with it as they will, and no executive should be permitted to alter it as he pleases."

He appealed to his listeners to help "put a man in the White House who will respect the constitution, and added:

"We must never put ourselves in the position again of electing a President who has no confidence in the supreme court."

Bleakley carried his campaign through the Adirondacks today with a charge that the Democratic administration's "failure to keep pace with highway construction has been particularly responsible for the tremendous increase in accidents."

At the same time, the nominee pledged, if elected, to order a "thorough" legislative investigation to determine the cause of what he said was a "vast spread" between the price received for milk by producers and that paid by consumers.

The denunciation of the Democratic state highway policies and discussion of the milk problem punctuated speeches yesterday in Cobleskill, in the heart of agricultural Schoharie county, and last night in Industrial Troy.

Today, spurred by a congratulatory telegram from Governor Alfred M. Landon, Bleakley pushed forward the final phase of his upstate swing with a luncheon address at Saratoga Springs and then rolled northward to Glens Falls, Elizabethtown and Plattsburgh.

Music Hall Jammed

A crowd estimated by Rensselaer Republican county chairman to number 2,000 persons jammed Troy's Music Hall to cheer Bleakley's criticism of diversion of motor vehicle funds to purposes other than for highway construction.

It is an economic policy and a cruel policy because it is partially responsible for the death and injury to thousands of citizens every year," he shouted. "The Democratic party in this state has never appreciated the importance of the highway problem in its broader phases."

From the same platform, Bleakley heard himself described by State Senator George R. Fearon as a "man's man, a man whom you can lean on."

"He is an American through and through," Fearon said of the nominee. "I am for him 100 per cent. He has demonstrated he believes in our American form of government, and he believes above all in the Supreme Court of the United States."

Lehman at Albany
For Farm Parley

New York, Oct. 14 (AP)—Governor Lehman went back to Albany today for a conference with farm leaders, after opening his active drive for reelection with a declaration that New York needs a fighting governor, not one "who is willing to be a cooling dove."

Lehman renewed his criticism of the statement of his Republican rival, William F. Bleakley, that it was the governor's duty to make recommendations to the legislature but not to fight for their passage.

"The people of the state of New York will never obtain progressive, humane legislation unless they have a governor who stands ready at all times to fight for progressive, humane legislation," he said in a speech at Valley Stream, Long Island.

Lehman argued that Bleakley's conception of the governorship was contrary to that of "vigorous fighting governors like Theodore Roosevelt, Charles Evans Hughes, Alfred E. Smith and Franklin D. Roosevelt."

The governor said Bleakley was in accord with the "handful" of Republican leaders who defeated the Democratic social security program at the last session of the legislature, and contended the opposition was motivated by "selfish political reasons."

"I did not believe then, and I do not believe today, that the attitude of the Republican leaders represented the wishes of the people of the state of New York, regardless of party," he said.

"The people will never have the benefits of the social security program if they have to stake their hopes on one who will not fight, on one who is willing to be a cooling dove."

The governor's secretary, Walter Brown, said agricultural leaders from all parts of the state had been invited to luncheon at the executive mansion today to discuss farm problems and the milk situation.

Among those invited, Brown listed Millard F. Hinchey, president of the New York State Horticultural Society; Herbert P. King, president of the New York Farm Bureau; Dean Carl E. Ladd, president of Cornell Agricultural College; Raymond Cooper, master of the State Grange; Mrs. Evelyn Gatchell, president of the New York State Federation of Home Bureaus; and Fred Porter, president of the Cooperative Grange League Federation Exchange.

About 75 people from Zena, Woodstock, Kingston, Newburgh and High Woods gathered at the Zena Country Club on Friday evening to celebrate the birthday of Miss Blanche Long and the Moore. John Carrington, Lewis Long and Palmer Carrington and little Malcolm Carrington. Music for popular dances was furnished by a three-piece orchestra and accordion music for old fashioned square dances by Harold Holmstrom.

With the early fall rains that New York state has been enjoying has come a crop of fall mushrooms in lawns, fields, and woods which afford an abundance of this delectable food for those who know their mushrooms. By way of assisting the amateur to become better acquainted with edible wild mushrooms, Prof. F. C. Stewart, formerly botanist at the Experiment Station at Geneva and an authority on mushrooms, has prepared a circular describing the 12 best wild mushrooms, which is now available upon request to the Station, at Geneva.

Politics at Random

Will the relief problem emerge, after all, as the paramount issue of this campaign?

Months ago many predicted it would, but the summer passed without much indication that the prophecy would be fulfilled. Political discussion diffused itself over a very wide area, taking in everything from the Dupont dynasty to communism. Boondoggling was heard of now and then, but mostly it remained lost in the cloud of words about other things.

October, however, has developed some signs that the relief policies and practices of the Roosevelt administration are to be debated both widely and with better insistence between now and election day.

The Republican national committee has opened up to serve a barrage, naming individuals and places, that some of those named are threatening to sue for libel. A senate committee has come under increasing pressure to look into charges of relief politics in Pennsylvania. Governor Landis has joined in a demand for greater publicity of relief payrolls.

On the other side, Relief Administrator Hopkins has made a blanket denial and counter-charge, and a West Virginia audience has booed Senator Holt from the platform, with his speech attacking relief operations unadvisedly.

THIS begins to look like some of the fire and brimstone which had been promised so lavishly by the advance agents of the campaign. It is hardly a secret that six months ago, even the inner circles of the administration in Washington were greatly agitated over Mr. Hopkins' relief set-up. The story never has been published, but there is reason to believe that on at least one occasion the dispute came within inches of resulting in a cabinet resignation.

A debate of proportions undreamed of and then broken out again and again in congress, in every community people were quarreling about relief. One of those closest to Mr. Landis predicted that, if nominated, he would plunge into the relief situation at once, and lay it on hot and heavy throughout the campaign.

Actually, the Republican nominee did make a beginning in that direction in his speech of acceptance. Other parts of his address seemed to attract greater public attention, however, and swayed louder echoes in the opposition camp. Then the drought and one thing and another turned the debate into different and somewhat confused channels. Boondoggling was shoved aside, as had been the constitutional issue before it.

gram this year. The following officers have been elected to shape the destinies of the organization for the coming year: Miss Helen Blecker, president; Philip Denniston, vice-president; Rose LeFevre, treasurer; Doris Corwin, secretary.

Comforter Has Goal

The Comforters are definitely under full sail. The society has set a goal this year of raising a certain amount of money to aid in the church financial campaign and with this in mind, a committee is already at work on the selection of the annual play with Frank Elmendorf again the director. New officials are Henry P. Eighmey, second in command, and Miss Isabel Brewer, Miss Ruth Hudier, Miss Beatrice Powley and Miss Alberta Scheffel forming the rest of the official body. Last Sunday evening's meeting found 19 members present to hear a talk on "The Art of Living" given by the president. Next Sunday the topic of "Passive Resistance" will be discussed.

Presbyterians Organize

The newly organized senior Christian Endeavor of the First Presbyterian Church held their second meeting of the year last Sunday night with Burton Streeter in charge of a program that included a discussion led by Dr. Gates. Plans were made to send members to the Fall Convention at Clintonville. Next Sunday the Albany Avenue Baptist Endeavorers will join the Presbyterians in a prayer meeting scheduled at 8:30 o'clock in the Elmendorf Street Church.

First Reformed Program

The First Reformed Christian Endeavor Society enjoyed a banquet Friday evening, October 9, with 47 members present. Thus with an enrollment of 86 members and weekly attendance running between 35 and 60, the Reformed Church has taken the lead in young people's activity. Their installation of the following officers was also held: William Limbacher, president; Maxine Taylor, vice-president; John Snyder, treasurer; Carolyn McCreery, secretary. The program for the fall season has been announced as follows: October 11, a radio play, "The Betrayal"; October 16, a harryide to Coward's Falls; October 18, a discussion, "The Truth About Father Divine"; October 25, a campfire at Dasher's Falls; November 1, a fire-side meeting at parsonage with the Rev. Eugene Duryee speaking on the Orient; November 8, a discussion, "Keeping in Tune"; November 13, a spider web social; November 15, a discussion for greater things in C. E.; November 22, "A Pilgrim Mother"; a Thanksgiving play open to entire congregation; November 29, "America the Beautiful," a lantern slide lecture and discussion.

One of the reasons why many pheasant hunters who observe the law find it difficult to get birds at the opening of the season is the prevalence of the illegal practice of hunting before the season. Commissioner Lithgow O'Brien has announced that the full resources of the department would be utilized to check this practice.

A CITY WAS BORN

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN.

(Forward)—The following is a brief recital of the early struggles of leading citizens of the two villages of Kingston and Rondout each to secure a charter incorporating them as the cities of Kingston and Rondout. The information given is taken from the files of the newspapers of those early days of over half a century ago.)

CHAPTER TWO.

Kingston's Charter Meeting.

Following the meeting of the Rondout charter committee held in Washington Hall on Abel street on Friday evening, February 22, 1871, the Kingston charter committee met on Saturday evening, February 23, in Fireman's Hall on Fair street.

Before taking up the proceedings of the uptown charter committee it might be well to recall that historic old Washington Hall downtown was destroyed by fire a number of years ago. Firemen's Hall is the engine house of Wiltwyck Hose Company uptown.

The committee of conference appointed on the part of Kingston to meet with a like committee on the part of Rondout submitted a report which stated that the Rondout committee, after considerable preliminary talk, the Rondout committee submitted the following proposition: That the boundary of the proposed city charter should be identical the same as the boundaries of the two corporations of Rondout and Kingston, and that the proposed city should be divided into five wards.

Considerable time was spent debating these propositions and the "language used by the Rondout committee having convinced your committee that all attempts to induce the former to agree to any proposition in reference to the matter in dispute, which to us seemed fair would fail, your committee was compelled to withdraw and refer the matter back to the general committee.

The report was accepted and the committee adopted the following resolutions that a numerous committee of the citizens and authorities of Kingston, including its board of directors, representing every class and shade of feeling and interest, duly appointed by the citizens of Kingston, at a public meeting called and held at the court house for that purpose, have carefully proposed the draft of a city charter adapted to the union of the two villages under one city government, to be known as the city of Kingston, preserving therein the plan and features of the draft of the proposed Rondout city charter so far as same is applicable to that locality.

And whereas, the committees on the part of Kingston and Rondout have duly decided and resolved that the union of the two places under one city government is desirable and required by the essential unity of territory, population and interest of the two places and cannot be much longer deferred.

And where, in a spirit of compromise the committee of Kingston proposed to the conference committee of Rondout to agree to unite the two villages under said charter upon terms of equality, each village to have an equal number of wards and equal representation in the city government, and the odd ward to be found in the territory between the two villages, and an equal amount from each.

And whereas, considering the fact that the territory of Kingston largely exceeds the territory of Rondout, and that the number of taxpayers, of the adult population, and of the taxable property therein is largely in excess of that of Rondout, the terms of equality proposed by Kingston Rondout, were exceedingly generous;

And whereas, considering the numbers Kingston in population by counting in all her transient floating population and her excessive number of children and aliens, and contains really less taxpayers and less in numbers, when the permanent adult population alone is considered;

And whereas, the conference committee of Rondout refused to agree to a union of the two villages upon the generous terms of equality proposed by Kingston, but indicated that they would only consent to a union which would give Rondout the greatest number of wards, and would place Kingston in a minority in the city government;

And whereas, the conference committee of Kingston insisted that her excess of territory, taxpayers and taxable property was at least a full equivalent for the excess in the Rondout population;

And whereas, for the cause above said the conference committee of the two places were unable to agree, thereby leaving the matter in difference to be adjusted by the legislature, now therefore

Resolved, that we approve of the said charter of the city of Kingston and Rondout each to secure a charter incorporating them as the cities of Kingston and Rondout. The information given is taken from the files of the newspapers of those early days of over half a century ago.)

Resolved, that the name of our city should be the City of Kingston—name co-equal with the history of our locality, and of the state and nation—a name in which we all feel a just pride, and which we will not surrender. And we cannot regard with favor any attempt to organize a city out of the historic territory of Kingston to be called the city of Rondout.

Resolved, that the unity in territory, population and interest makes Kingston and Rondout essentially one, and they should both be united under one city government upon terms of equality.

The two places are connected by railroads, public avenues and streets and many people reside in one place and do business in the other, making separate taxation, unequal, complicated, difficult, vexatious and annoying.

And without uniting the two places the territory of Rondout would in a few years be insufficient to contain her own population.

Resolved, that a committee of nine be appointed by the chairman to urge the passage of our charter, and to present the question in committee in the senate and assembly, and that such committee prepare an address setting out the reasons why our charter should be adopted in the form proposed and have the same printed and laid before the legislature in connection with said charter.

The resolution and preamble was unanimously adopted and the following committee was named: William Lounsbury, J. E. Van Etten, William S. Kenyon, C. L. Kiersted, William H. Fredenburgh, E. W. Budington, J. E. Ostlander, Luke Noon and A. T. Newlander.

The Hon. Mr. Schoonmaker was chairman of the Kingston charter committee.

A child was born in Australia on March 13th. Its grandparents in America heard the news by telephone on March 12th, because of the difference in time.

That's probably the extreme example of the way the telephone annihilates time and distance. Yet every day thousands of far-seeing and "far-hearing" people accomplish things by telephone that otherwise might take them days.

So, whether you have a baby to announce or pressing business to transact, reach for the telephone and save time and steps. New York Telephone Company.

Communion was observed in the Reformed Church on Sunday, October 11.

The Rev. John W. Follette, who has been on an evangelistic tour to Wisconsin, has returned. While in Wisconsin he was guest speaker at the camp meeting in Byron in August where the attendance numbered 3,000.

At the close of these meetings the district superintendent arranged meetings for the Rev. Mr. Follette so that he visited churches in Fond du Lac, Wisconsin Rapids, Madison, Appleton, Green Bay, Stevens Point, Oshkosh, Shawano and Milwaukee.

The Rev. Mr. Follette expects to leave within a few days to be speaker at a convention of ministers and Christian workers in Boston.

Thomas Washington recently received the appointment as assistant grand lecturer of the Greene-Ulster district of the order of the Eastern Star of the state of New York.

Phone System Proves a Success

Tuesday morning a demonstration of the use of the "Carrier-Call," a two-way loud-speaking communication device, was given at the county court house when P. Brooks, a representative of the American Carrier-Call Corporation of New York city, installed the system in the office of County Judge Frederick O. Traver and in the office of Sheriff Abram Molyneux. The demonstration of the device was witnessed by Judge Traver, Sheriff Molyneux, Corporation Counsel John M. Cashin, District Attorney Cleon B. Murray and a Freeman representative.

Carrier-call is a small eight-pound unit which is plugged in any electric light socket and permits two-way conversation with another like unit installed at a distance. The units are not "wireless" or "radio," but use the same system of wires over which the electric light current comes. This system may be installed at varying points within a building or may be used for communication between buildings where a metallic connection is established. Where the device is used for conversation over different circuits there is a transformer device which is installed to permit the use of the device between different circuits.

Mr. Brooks explained that while the device could be used over any metallic connection, the electric light wires were the logical means of connection since the device must be plugged in a socket for power purposes.

The system worked perfectly between Judge Traver's office and the office of Sheriff Molyneux and also with other parts of the building. There is no delay or waiting for a busy operator since you talk through no switchboard and need no extension line. The set consists of a four tube unit with an electrodynamic speaker which acts as both microphone and reproducer. When used as a transmitter a carrier is sent out over the line, modulated by the dynamic "mike" and as a receiver it acts just like a radio receiver. There is no radiation of any kind and no interference since the unit does not employ the use of "air waves" but the impulse is sent over the electric wires from which power to operate the unit is also derived. The life of the tubes is said to be about 1,000 hours.

An interesting thing about the set is the small light which illuminates the dial. This is the smallest neon light tube in the world. It is manufactured by General Electric and is a signal to indicate when the set is in use. At present the company is manufacturing about 400 sets a week.

Mrs. Bert Terwilliger Gives Fine Landon Story

A copy of a sketch of the life of Governor Alfred M. Landon, recently read before the Women's Republican Club of the Town of Wawarsing by Mrs. Chester Young of Napanoch was mailed to Republican County Chairman Philip Elting a day or so since by one of the members of the club, accompanied by a nice contribution toward the expenses of the campaign in this county and a note which characterized the sketch as the "best I have read so far." Mr. Elting read the sketch, agreed with the writer of the note and passed it on to The Freeman with the suggestion that it was worthy of further publicity.

The sketch was written by Mrs. Bert H. Terwilliger of Ellenville and is as follows:

National Figure in Three Years.
When a man suddenly appears above a distant horizon, and in three years not only grows into a national figure, but becomes the outstanding possibility of his party as a Presidential candidate, it surely behooves one to know something of his background and to see what it is in his inheritance, and in his early training, that has gone into the making of that man.

Just An American Citizen.
It was no striking turn of phrase in a burst of oratory, as in the case of William Jennings Bryan, nor was it the concentrated effort of months on the part of a friend and admirer, as in the case of Warren Harding that brought Governor Landon to the public eye and it has been deeds, not words, a fine record of quiet achievement, not brilliant promises made only to be speedily ignored and broken that furnish the key to the steady growth of this man in the public estimation. Up to last year, Governor Landon had been not much more than a name, to the rank and file in the country—now he emerges as a distinct personality, and we all have become interested in learning what his early life and career have been. It has not been an exciting life, full of adventure, nor has it been marked by extremes of poverty or wealth. In fact, it is much like the life of the average American citizen who expects to work, who knows what it means to toil early and late, for the daily bread of his family and himself and who willingly shares in the life of the community.

By Chance a Pennsylvanian.
Ohio might have added one more to her quota of Presidential progeny, had Alf Landon been born at the Landon home in Elba, Ohio, but it happened that his mother was visiting her parents at West Middlesex, Pennsylvania, at the time of his birth. An ancestry of Dutch, Scotch, English and French, forebears surely furnishes a promising variety and quality of character, and all of Governor Landon's progenitors were of the sturdy pioneer stock who knew very well what it meant to work for a living.

His father was an oil producer in the Pennsylvania fields, shrewd, self-reliant and honest. He moved to the new oil fields of Ohio, and the boy Alf received his early education at Marietta. Another contributing factor in his education was the Chattanooga Institute. Even before the Landon family had moved to Ohio, they with many of their neighbors, spent part of the summers at Chattanooga, taking advantage of the lectures and concerts, and they continued doing this when living in Ohio. It seemed particularly fitting, that Governor Landon, when revisiting his birthplace in western Pennsylvania, should also return to Chattanooga this summer, and there he delivered an important and significant address.

Learned Thrift Early.
The Landon family moved again, this time to the Oklahoma oil fields, and the father persuaded his son to study law, rather than follow in the paternal oil footsteps. After one year in the Liberal Arts course in the University of Kansas, the young man decided not to finish that course, but to begin his law study at once. Part of his college expenses he earned—not by soliciting magazine subscriptions, but by hard work on a pipe line gang, summers. The habit of thrift, which was to make a name for him in later years manifested itself early. As president of his fraternity he instituted a new system of bookkeeping and it proved so efficient that at his graduation, his chapter had an unheard of surplus of $240 in its treasury. "You can't spend what you haven't got," seems to have been a guiding maxim even thus early in his career.

Blue Shirt for White Collar.
He graduated from the law school of Kansas University in 1908, but instead of beginning the practice of law, he entered a bank in Independence, Kansas, and after three years' experience, and a promotion, his future there seemed assured. But the lure of oil was too strong, he left the bank. "Took off his white collar for a blue shirt," as one writer says of him, and started to dig oil wells. He was to have many worries and difficulties in a field where competition has always been keen, and he has known what it means for a small, independent producer to fight spectators at the National Republican Convention in June, and one would like to know the innermost thoughts and emotions of these two as they heard the man they loved best nominated to the highest office in the land.

DENOUNCES NEW DEAL RELIEF

Mrs. Landon Will Prove Worthy "First Lady"

It is only natural surely that we should have some feminine curiosity about Mrs. Landon, this modest woman who remained at home last June, quietly pursuing her daily round, during those most thrilling days of her husband's career, and so far as possible refraining from all publicity. Frederick Palmer, author of "This Man Landon" had pleasant contacts with her in the Landon home when in Topeka last year gathering material for his book, and he has this to say of her: "I should judge that Mrs. Landon kept step with her husband, feet on the earth, and wasted no time from household duties in dreams about life in the White House. For those who are interested in the subject, I will say that she wears her clothes well which means more than merely wearing expensive clothes. For those interested in another sense, I will say that she is very well educated, and for those interested in still another sense, I will say that she is also well-bred. I shall go a little further to say to any aspiring persons of the Washington social world who will want to show her how, that it will not take her long to find her way around." Mrs. Landon is deeply interested in philanthropic work, devoted to her home and family, and noted for her hospitality to her husband's friends.

Words Carry Conviction

We are beginning to realize in the east, that this man from what Mr. Farley scornfully calls "a typical prairie state" is something more, that he has a great capacity for careful and preserving thought on everyday problems, as they affect the butcher, the baker, the candlestick maker—and the farmer. He is not hasty in his decisions nor is he "blown about by every wind of doctrine"; he is a man of no pretensions but many achievements" as one speaker said when introducing him the other evening. He is not a brilliant campaign speaker, but he is deeply in earnest and knows whereof he speaks. One of his Kansas supporters says "he talks better than he speaks and thinks better than he talks" and somehow he seems to carry conviction where eloquent spell-binders fail.

An Outstanding Victory
Election Day of 1932 came and with it the famous Democratic landslide, but Republican Landon was elected governor of Kansas, the only Republican governor among the surrounding states. More than that, two years later, at the height of the Roosevelt popularity, Landon was re-elected; he was not only the one Republican governor in all the Mississippi Valley, but the only one to be re-elected in the whole country.

Amazing Record as Governor
Principally, these things: A balanced budget to be achieved by his now well known, pay-as-you-go policy, which took form in the cash basis law passed by the legislature early in his first term; a reduction in taxation and in the cost of government; the wiping out of the disgraceful highway deficit—all three were accomplished with many additional items. A highway patrol was established, which reduced bank robberies from 61 in 1932 to 5 in 1934. A scandal in the state treasurer's office was relentlessly pursued under his direction, and severely punished. Government administration throughout the state became more honest and efficient. All these made an impressive total of promises redeemed, and new measures proposed and worked out to a practical and successful conclusion. One unusual and delightful feature about this record is that Governor Landon does not say "I did it"—it is always "we did it," meaning the legislature, all those in the government service, and any he might have called on for counsel or suggestions. He has a genuine talent for cooperation, a gift for impressing others with his earnestness, his sincerity, and his appreciation of work honestly done.

Is a "Home" Man
It has been easy for us to forget that in the midst of his engrossing political life, Governor Landon has had a private life as well. In 1920 he married Miss Theo Cobb, daughter of a well known Kansas editor, and their life has been most happy, marked by the same simplicity and hospitality found in the average American family center. Two children have been added to this family circle, and Peggy Anne is now his sister to Nancy Jo and John. Governor Landon's father and eighteen year old Peggy Anne were interested

Health Board to Meet in Secret

Kingston's board of health Tuesday evening by a divided vote decided to bar reporters from all of its future meetings. The resolution barring the press from attending was offered by Dr. A. L. Hill, seconded by Dr. Joseph Jacobson, and carried by a majority vote. The motion was opposed by Attorney Louis G. Bruhn, a member of the board, and by Mayor C. J. Heiselman, president of the board, but they were voted down by Drs. Hill, Jacobson and Rakov. The other two members of the board, Dr. Frederic H. Holcomb and Dr. Fred H. Voss were not present at the meeting.

The action by the board was due to the fact that some of the members of the Ulster County Medical Society had objected to the printing of the discussion and action taken at a meeting of the health board three months ago relative to the high infant mortality rate in Kingston. Dr. Jacobson, speaking in favor of the resolution last night said that he did so "as a representative of the County Medical Society of which he was the mouthpiece." He said that the society had taken up the question of ethical publicity at its last meeting.

In seconding the resolution Dr. Jacobson said that the health board at its meetings discussed many scientific questions which might be misinterpreted by the press. What happened at the meetings of the health board should not be presented to the public until it had first been looked over by members of the health board. "Not that the board is trying to hide anything," said Dr. Jacobson "but after each meeting the press should be given a typewritten report of what the board wanted printed."

"Who is to write this report?" asked Mayor Heiselman. Dr. Hill said his idea was to have the secretary of the board write out the report and if there had been any discussion at the meeting the report could be looked over by the members of the board before it was given to the press. Attorney Bruhn in opposing the resolution said that the health board was a public board meeting in the interests of the citizens of Kingston and that the residents of the city were entitled to know what action was taken by the board on various matters. As far as publicity was concerned he believed that no member of the board should advance a resolution or take a stand on any subject if he was not willing to have that fact made public. Attorney Bruhn said that there was little brought up at any meeting of the board that would necessitate the barring of reporters from the sessions, but if any subject came up that the board desired to debate freely among themselves without fear of publication that the board could always go into executive session and exclude reporters.

Mayor Heiselman called the attention of the board to the fact that as mayor of the city he had always desired to keep the good will of the press. He did not favor the resolution. With the adoption of the resolution the reporters attending the meeting left the room, and the board continued in session for over an hour. At the close of the meeting it was stated by the secretary of the board that the only action taken after the reporters left the room was the referring to the Common Council for payment of a bill of $55 for installing a toilet.

The benefits derived from feeding trees were clearly shown this past summer. While the drought was so severe that all trees suffered to some extent, yet trees that had been fed regularly came through this ordeal much better than did unfed trees. What little damage was sustained in the case of fed trees was only temporary, while in many instances the damage to unfed trees was fatal, and a valuable tree, which it took years to mature, must be replaced.

The Federal Reserve Board reports $51,000,000,000 in the banks on June 30, and considerably more now. That's fine, and we all hope we can draw it out easier in the next depression.

'Sky's The Limit'

More Speed, Safely And Cheaply, Beckons Aeronautical Engineers

In less than 10 years the speed of American passenger transport airplanes had been more than doubled. Other improvements have been proportional. This is the second of two stories on technical advances in aviation.

By DEVON FRANCIS

Newark, N. J. (AP)—Jack Herlihy used to chase horses and cows out of pastures before he could "set down" his biplane.

In 1928, long before he had approached his present record of 1,000,000 miles of flying, he was surveying possible airports.

Herlihy had vision, but some of the great flying fields he helped select will be too small for the ships which the great air transport companies of the United States will be flying in 1938.

The passenger capacity of today's airliners will be doubled in about 18 months when 40-seat airliners are expected to go into service.

Big Airports Aid Safety

Big airports assist the aeronautical engineers in attaining their principal objectives—increased safety and greater speeds. They also seek greater economies of operation.

In the field of safety, the automatic pilot is the flyer's right bower. The human pilot guides a knob on the instrument panel and releases the manual controls.

The plane now is in the hands of "the machine that thinks," the gyro-pilot.

Take a peek at its mechanism: There are two small gyros, actuated by air streams. One is for lateral control, the other for vertical flight. The gyros respond to the movements of a number of oil plungers which transmit to it variations in air currents. Through "boosters" to increase the strength of its commands, a gyro accommodates the airplane to any air conditions, to wind drift to a shift in the load in the fuselage.

Dozens of Instruments

Augmenting the gyro as a safety device are dozens of instruments, better airports and ground crews in constant radio communication with the plane. Plane design itself has contributed a large safety factor in a decade of air engineering.

Ice on propellers and wings is no longer a problem; skeins of oil and flexing rubber shields on the leading edges of the wings destroy the ice which once altered the contours of the wings and made planes unstable.

"Beam" flying utilizes a system of dots and dashes transmitted by radio, spaced families from transmitting stations. The beams advise a pilot whether he is "on course" or to the left or right of his scheduled line of flight. So perfected has the beam system become that instrument panels now are being built with visual indicators.

Retractable Gear Helps

Landing gear always was a problem. It retarded flight. New construction designs enabled aeronautical engineers to increase air speed as much as 25 miles an hour with retractable gear. The moment a pilot throttles his motors, a siren blares in his ear and red lights dance on his instrument board if his wheels are not in landing position.

The 1935 transport pilot has no less than 75 dials on his instrument board. Half of them are duplicates—for safety. Just a sample, for the motors alone: Gauges for oil pressure, oil temperature, carburetor intake temperature, fuel, vacuum (actuating the gyros and de-icers), cylinder head temperature and tachometer, which shows the number of engine revolutions.

It has been only a decade since private companies took over the air mail from the government, but that decade has been one of achievement. On land the 5,000 to 7,000 pound machine has been increased in size to 25,000 pounds and more. Machines now under construction will weigh more than 50,000 pounds.

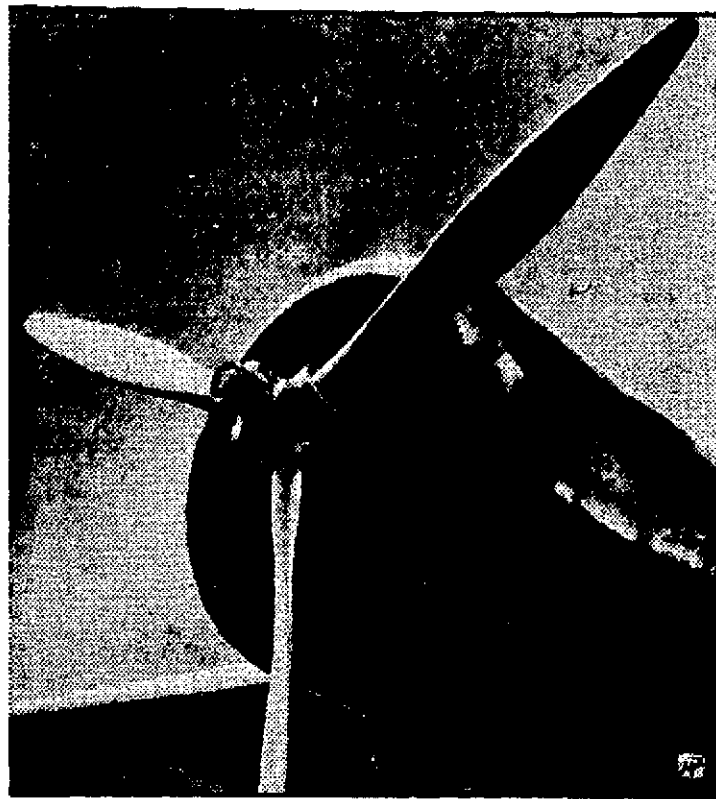

On the sea, where the problem of landing a great mass of weight is much simpler, huge flying boats ply the air over the Pacific and along the coasts of South America.

Soon they will span the Atlantic.

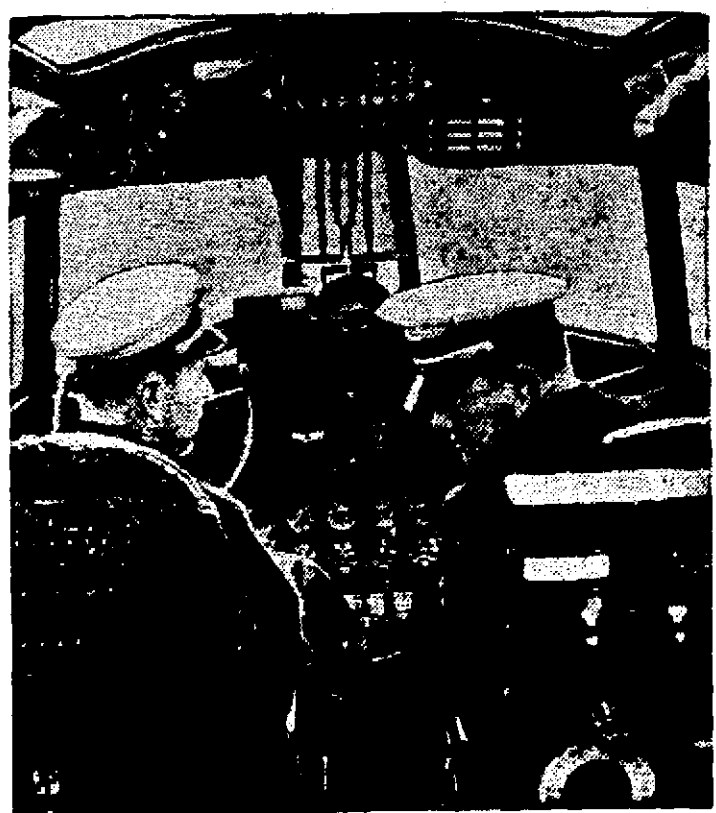

NO WHEELS—IN SIGHT

For a long while the landing gear which hung down under planes was a problem, for it reduced speed. Then the retractable gear was developed which increased speed for ships 25 miles an hour.

POWER—IN THREE BLADES

At one time, propellers had a fixed pitch which retarded maximum efficiency. Now the pilot controls pitch by the twist of a knob, getting maximum efficiency at take-off and in the air.

GADGETS—ALL IMPORTANT

Time was when airplanes had only half a dozen or so instruments. Now look. Capt. Edwin C. Musick (left) and first officer R. O. D. Sullivan are shown at the controls of the China Clipper.

Reserves Hold a Gypsy Patteran

The Gypsy Patteran held by the Y. W. C. A. Grade school Girl Reserves on Columbus Day proved to be both a most picturesque and enjoyable affair. There were 171 girls attired "gypsies" who left the Y. W. C. A. at 10:20 a. m. and proceeded up Broadway and then out to Spring Lake, where campfires were built and a picnic lunch enjoyed.

Next came the treasure ceremonial, the girls all in a circle around the fire. Last year's treasure was unearthed and a new one buried, which contained the names of all the girls of the party. Those taking part in the ceremonial were Hilda Rice, of Blue Triangle Club, Rosalie Tucker of Friendly Triangle, Gladys Holden of Amos Ra, Dorothy Schick of T. M. T. M. Morris Hoyer of Ever Ready, Patricia Matthews of Busy Bee, Kathryn Weeks of Pop Club. The guardians of the treasure were Wanda Watson and Marjorie Tene. Following the staging of "T" songs and informal games, the colorful group followed their leaders who blazed the trail homeward. The girls were accompanied by Miss Lillian Herman, Girl Reserve secretary, Miss Mary Shapiro, Miss Vivian Kline, Miss Katherine Millard, Mrs. A. Noble Graham, Mrs. Joseph M.

Fowler, Miss Jean Ester, and the following members of the Y. W. C. A. high school clubs: The Misses Virginia Lucilio, Alma Nesle, Shirley Dunham, Marjorie Tene, Genevieve Monteleone, Wanda Watson, Mary Krenzelok; also members of the Wa-Hoo Club: The Misses Martha Priest, Conetta Ausanio, Mildred Doyle, Florence Markle, Evelyn Nickerson, Catherine Longendyke, Catherine Enlist.

Y. W. C. A. AUXILIARY OCTOBER MEETING

The October meeting of the Y. W. C. A. Women's Auxiliary was held on Friday, October 9, at the "T" with the president, Mrs. George A. DuBois, in charge. The devotion were led by Mrs. Marie Plisch. Routine business was transacted and reports of committees given. Mrs. Severe reported that her committee had charge of the supper being served for the Boy Scout drive. Many of the women, given out at the June meeting, were returned and the contents of their pockets amounted to a goodly sum. Those still having entries are requested to return them at the next meeting. It was voted to make a payment on the auxiliary's pledge to the "T" and also to make a special gift to help in repairing the rooms of the Boys' department, and making them more attractive. Mr. Sisson, the new "Y" secretary, was present and spoke to the women about the work, particularly the immediate needs for the Boys' department. Announcement was made that if friends of the association have any furniture they are not using, suitable for the Boys' rooms, especially chairs, they will be most gratefully accepted at the "Y." Also reading matter, particularly boys' magazines, scientific magazines, nature study books, etc. would be much appreciated, either used copies or new subscriptions. At the close of the meeting afternoon tea was served and a social time was enjoyed, with Mrs. Sisson and little Miss Lorraine Sisson as the guests of the auxiliary.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

New York, Oct. 14 (AP)—With some of the old-line leaders attracting buying support, stocks today tipped the market scales for modest recoveries.

Early morning selling was absorbed without many severe casualties and, when American Telephone, Western Union and Santa Fe tilted forward, numerous favorites of the past few weeks got back into their climbing clothes near the final hour.

At the same time the rally lacked much of the vigor of previous sessions. Transfers approximated 1,800,000 shares.

The major Telephone stock recorded a new 5-year top with a gain of more than a point. J. I. Case got up about 4 and Santa Fe 2. Advances of a point or so were shown by Western Union, Great Northern, M-K-T Preferred, Kelvintor, Atlantic Gulf & West Indies, Hercules Motors and Budd Mfg.

Unchanged to a shade higher were Westinghouse, du Pont, Goodyear, U. S. Rubber, Baldwin Locomotive, Southern Pacific, Northern Pacific, Anaconda, Kennecott, Douglas Aircraft, General Motors, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck and Standard Oil of New Jersey.

In the backward division were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Loew's, Woolworth, Spiegel-May-Stern, Deere and Consolidated Edison.

PortEwen, Kingston Churches Celebrate Oregon Centennial

Special Services Will be Held in Port Ewen and Kingston Churches in Observance of the Opening of Oregon.

Into the frontier city of St. Louis in 1831 came four Nez Perce Indians looking for a book of the white man which gave directions for worshipping the Great Spirit. They were treated royally, shown the sights, taken to the Cathedral, but they did not see the Book. Two died in the city, one on the way home, the survivor reached his people—with empty hands.

No radio existed then to broadcast the search, but a story published in the New York Christian Advocate and Herald, March 1, 1832, stirred an interest throughout the church which led to the appointment of two young Presbyterians, Dr. Marcus Whitman and the Rev. Henry H. Spaulding, as pioneer missionaries to the Oregon country. With their young wives, they set out on the old Oregon Trail. All the hard way they held morning and evening prayers. On July 4, 1836, Mrs. Spaulding and Mrs. Whitman became the first white women to cross the Rockies.

Dr. Whitman settled among the Cayuse Indians at Wallatpu, Washington, and Mr. Spaulding among the Nez Perce at Lapwai, Idaho. Both fell to work establishing civilized life in the wilderness. Spaulding and his wife with the conviction that the Indians must abandon their nomadic existence to maintain themselves and to develop a Christian life. By the time reinforcements arrived, back-breaking work was done, needful resources were available, and the first Protestant church west of the Rockies organized.

In the next few restless years the influx of white settlers made the Indians uneasy and the spread of strange diseases made their hostility sure. No doubt influenced by their custom of taking the life of the medicine man for that of a lost patient, they massacred Dr. Whitman, his wife and 12 other white people in Wallatpu. Spaulding, away from home, agonized at the news fearing for his family, but his wife was saved through her trust in friendly Indians. Their reunion was clouded by the realization that the work would have to be suspended. Years later Spaulding was able to return to the field, and when he found his vision justified wrote, "Bless the Lord, O my Soul!"

The results of Spaulding's work among the Nez Perce are seen today not only in handicraft, in the agricultural life they lead, in the Scriptures translated into the Nez Perce language, but also in the reverence and earnestness of Nez Perce congregations, in the serious application of Christian principles to their lives, in the spirit of the native leadership and the evangelistic camp meetings. This staunch pioneer missionary, with the cooperation of his wife, had the vision to lay broad and strong foundations for a people he saw facing transition in civilizations. All the varied activities he cultivated were secondary to his main work and joy, the preaching of the gospel.

ALLIGATOR HUNT GOES ON IN NORTH TONAWANDA

North Tonawanda, N. Y., Oct. 14

—An alligator hunt was on today in the hardware store where Deputy Game Inspector Howard Fischer works. John Miller found the alligator—a small one—on the banks of the Niagara river last week and gave it to Fischer. Fischer tied it with a piece of rawhide and went about his work. But the "gator" chewed the hide and escaped.

It looked like moving day when Fischer and his fellow employees began moving packing cases and displays yesterday to find it. The hunt is still on.

"I think he's hibernating on us," Fischer said with a grin.

Fischer was puzzled by the appearance of an alligator in the Niagara.

"Possibly he fell off somebody's yacht. Possibly somebody turned him loose," he said.

ons Heard Captain Byrne

The weekly meeting of the Kingston Club, held in the Governor Clinton Hotel Monday evening, of unusual interest to the members and guests because the speaker, Captain James P. Byrne of this city, gave an outline of the National Guard, giving its history and reasons for its existence. Formerly a county unit, the National Guard today is under Federal control.

Captain Byrne also showed two films as a means of picturing the history of the old National Guard and the new. The first film, taken at Pine Camp three years ago, showed the unit as horse drawn. The second, taken this year at Pine Camp, showed the unit motorized and considerably more modern in every respect.

President Gordon Craig presided over the business session prior to the entertainment and Captain Byrne introduced to the membership W. Frank Reber, chairman of the National Guard committee. Mr. Reber also introduced a Lions Club Boy Scout patrol committee.

There will be no meeting of the club next week as the members go to Middletown where a Char-Night will be held. There will be a Lions Club rally at Rhinecliff next Wednesday.

Local Option Case Meets More Snags

In all probability the Woodstock local option case will not come up Thursday for the purpose of taking oral testimony in relation to the striking off of names from the petition presented to the town clerk and the Board of Elections requesting the submission of the question to the voters on election day.

The fact that Justice Schirick has ruled that some 50 additional names will have to be stricken from the petition after taking oral testimony, presents a problem which would take several days in court. Indications are that the matter will be submitted to the court on affidavits instead of the taking of oral testimony.

Proponents of the petition seeking to bring the local option question up to the voters of the town on election claim to have sufficient signatures to the petition while the "wet" who seek to have the petition killed claim there are sufficient "illegal" signatures to the petition to make it invalid.

Schirick Grants Divorce Decree

Justice Harry E. Schirick has granted an interlocutory decree of divorce in the action brought by George Buschbaum of Poughkeepsie against William B. Duggan appeared for plaintiff. Testimony was taken at a special term here on October 2 and the court has just rendered decision in the matter.

The court directs that the marriage of plaintiff and defendant be dissolved and that the decree shall become final in three months. The plaintiff is permitted to re-marry. The parties were married at Winfield, L. I., on September 10, 1922, and there is no issue of the marriage. Plaintiff resides in Poughkeepsie. The acts upon which the decree is granted are alleged to have taken place at New Salem in Ulster county on July 11, 1935, with an unknown person.

Trinity Men Look To Annual Event

The ladies of the church are preparing to provide liberally. The menu includes tomato juice, baked Virginia ham, baked beans, mashed potatoes, cabbage salad, ginger bread with whipped cream, relish, jelly and coffee.

The guest speaker will be Dr. Howard E. Thompson, pastor of Trinity M. E. Church, Newburgh. Other guests include R. L. Sisson, Y. M. C. A. secretary, and Dr. J. W. Chasey, superintendent of Kingston District.

The song leader will be Douglas Alverson. Music will be provided by Prof. Shults and his group of musicians. George E. Lowe will act as toastmaster. It is hoped that every man, associated in any way with Trinity Church, will be present.

THREE CHURCHES JOIN THURSDAY FOR SERVICES.

On Thursday night, in place of their regular mid-week services, Trinity, St. James and Clinton Avenue Methodist Churches of this city meet in a union service at Clinton Avenue Church.

The occasion will be the coming of Dr. Harold Paul Sloan, newly elected editor of "The Christian Advocate." Methodism's official weekly journal. On the retirement of Dr. J. H. Joy, in May, the general conference elected Dr. Sloan to the editorship of the New York edition of "The Advocate."

He comes from old New Jersey Methodist stock, and was district superintendent of the Camden district in the New Jersey Conference when elected. He received his education at the University of Pennsylvania, Crozier Theological Seminary, and Drew Theological Seminary. He has been five times a delegate to the general conference of the Methodist Church, each time becoming more conspicuous in the deliberations of that body, as with tall form, fine countenance, crowned with a mass of white hair, clear voice and logical skill he set forth his own ideas or opposed the ideas of others.

It will be a rare treat, not only to Methodists but to all who care to attend this service, to hear this outstanding protagonist of the Christian faith bring a message of encouragement in these troublous days. The service will begin promptly at 7:45 p. m.

Testimony Taken In Engel Case

Testimony was concluded late Tuesday afternoon in the alienation of affections action on trial in supreme court. Cyd Engel seeks to recover damages from her mother-in-law, Fannie Engel, and from her sister and brother-in-law, Beesie and Tobias Jasper, for alleged alienation of affections of Clyde Engel, the husband.

At the time of the marriage the parties lived in Brooklyn but later Cyd Engel lived in Ellenville for a time.

Dr. Heller, a brother-in-law of Clyde Engel, testified to conversations between members of the Engel family in which Mrs. Cyd Engel was referred to in degrading terms. He testified for plaintiff and said that the Engel family had been at his home, prior to the death of his wife who was one of the Engel girls, and the conversations had taken place there. It was following these conversations that Clyde Engel brought an action for divorce from his wife which later was discontinued when a counter-charge was made by the wife for a separation. Later they lived together but for a short time only. During most of the time since 1928 Clyde and Cyd Engel have lived apart, he at his parents' home and she at her parents' home. Two attempts at homemaking were not successful.

It is charged that Clyde Engel's mother, sister and Tobias Jasper, the brother-in-law, were responsible for the breaking up of the home of Cyd Engel and her husband.

This morning before the case went to trial A. J. Cook for defendants asked that the jury in the case be excused for a time while argument of motions was held before the court.

He moved to dismiss the complaint against all of the defendants on the grounds that there was no evidence on the part of plaintiff to show that any of the conversation about Cyd Engel had taken place before her husband or that such conversation had ever influenced or caused him to leave home. Decision was reserved and the case was sent to the jury.

Manuel Dittenheimer and William D. Brinler appeared for plaintiff and Ezekiel Jasper and A. J. Cook appeared for the defendants.

as against Tobias Jasper was dismissed on the theory there had been no testimony on the part of plaintiff that he had ever taken any part in the conversations or been present at them.

No. 204, Nick Kaslich against

Helen A. M. Kaslich, an action for divorce, came up in court when Joseph Aris, attorney for plaintiff asked that the case be given a preference. Francis Murray appeared in opposition to the motion and said that even if a preference was to be given the case it could not be given at this time as the time for making such a motion had passed for the term. He suggested that even though the case was given preference it could not be so marked until the December calendar. Justice Schirick reserved decision pending submission of an affidavit that defendant was ill in Brooklyn. He said the case would not be marked preferred at this term but if facts were sufficient might be so marked for the December term.

The World of Stamps

By QUINTON JAMES

Uncle Sam's style of long and narrow air mail stamps has a counterpart in Central America. The country is Guatemala, where its airport issue of 1935, the first year this pattern of adhesives was adopted there, is being supplemented with some additional values, design changes and color alterations.

These air mails are in two classifications. One group is for interior use, the other for outside the country. The stamps are in three sizes, but all oblong. Lower values are smaller than the higher denominations, which have approximately the same measurement as the U. S. airposts.

All designs include the quetzal, rare native bird, after which the country's monetary unit, quetzal, is named. The bird also comprises Guatemala's coat of arms. Printed in green, the bird is shown in flight—its long tail streaming behind—in the upper right corner of the stamps.

The new exterior series consist of five values. They run: 4-centavos orange, mouth of the river Dulce, new denomination; 50-c purple, port of San Jose, color change; 1-quetzal dark green, airport at Aurora, color change; 2.50-q red and olive green, islands on the Atlantic coast, new value; 5-q orange and blue, Atlantic coast scene, new value.

There are only two of the interior inserts, both of which are color changes. The 50-c airport at Aurora, is now blue, and the 1-q view of Lake Amatitlan, is now red.

But these are not all of the new ones from Guatemala. One of the two others is a 1/2-centavo intended as a replacement for the recent bi-sect created by a diagonal perforation across the 1-c. The new design is a scene from the national capital. The bi-sect became necessary when a 1/2-c value was required to meet a special postal demand. That was the quickest way of turning out the lower face stamp until a new one could be printed. Thus, it would seem, in view of its comparatively short existence, it will get a place among some of the world's scarce stamps.

The other new one, about the size of a U. S. special delivery, is a 5-c blue and brown comprising a central panel in which is a map of Guatemala placed against a white background. In the left panel is the familiar quetzal seated upon a scroll while the right panel contains the numeral of value.

Collectors Buying

Collectors and dealers who depend upon the postoffice department's philatelic agency at Washington for current and recently current unused postage stamps continue to set records for this division of the government.

The latest figures show that in September they spent $178,384.68. In September, 1935, the figure was only $35,749.81. This sum boosted the sales for the first quarter of the current fiscal year to $436,043.31. Last year's first quarter was a little more than half that.

U. S. Rarity

There's a stamp in the U. S. list—one that at first glance appears to be an ordinary 1-cent—which owes its rare classification solely to the fact that the perforations are different. The stamp isn't an old times; in fact its design is identical to the 1-cent Franklin green now currently in use.

The catalog numbers this stamp as 594. At a recently recorded sale an unused copy went for $1,975. Experts explain that outside of the perforations it is identical to 597, which is a coil stamp having perforations that measure 10 down each side, but no perforations across top or bottom. But 594 is perforated 11 all around. Both stamps were printed on the rotary press, which generally means that they are just a hair larger than the flat plate printings.

No. 594 was created, so it is explained, from the imperforate tail ends of sheets of 1-cent No. 597.

DIRECTORS OF STAMP CLUBS TO ATTEND EXHIBIT

Philatelists of the Hudson Valley will be honored by the presence of the directors of the National Federation of Stamp Clubs at its annual meeting and exhibition to be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel on November 20-21. The Colonial City Stamp Club will act as host on this occasion.

The exhibition will be the largest of its kind ever to be held in the Hudson Valley and the committee on arrangements have already promised the showing of many rare and interesting stamps. The diversity of classification of the exhibit will be so wide as to appeal to any one even remotely interested in the hobby of stamp collecting.

One of the features of the exhibition will be an inter-club competition for the Harold S. Mills Trophy. This trophy, which was presented to the Hudson Valley Region of the National Federation of Stamp Clubs by Harold S. Mills of Poughkeepsie, will be presented to the club whose members receive the greatest number of awards. It is expected that the club representing this community will make every effort to capture this award.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Early in the Co

The liver should pour out two pounds of bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, weak and the world looks black.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A more natural movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes these good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmonious, gentle, yet amazing in making his liver freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

Bright Prospects for Boxing's Revival at Auditorium Friday

The picture looks bright for the revival of boxing at the Municipal Auditorium, Friday night, by the Mayor's Industrial Committee.

Reserved seat ticket sales continue at an encouraging rate, some 250 having been sold already, making one of the largest pre-fight distros since the days when National Guard firefights packed 'em in for the ring sport.

So far, Harry B. Walker, ex-mayor, leads the mayor's committee in getting the tickets onto the market, having dealt out more than 65 from his pharmacy on central Broadway.

This ticket sale takes a lot of time from regular business, but as time goes on for the benefit of industry, it's all right with me," said Walker.

E. Frank Flanagan, Matthew V. Herzig and S. Gold, the others on the ticket committee, also report good sales.

Superintendent David Conway of the Board of Public Works has the American Legion ring repaired for the scraps, and will put a crew to work setting it up Friday.

Dick Williams, custodian of the Municipal Auditorium, host to the Yankee Doodle Circus, aired the place yesterday and today.

"Everything will be in tip top shape by fight time," said the ex-baseball star. Putting on a touch of humor, he commented, "From all reports this fight card is going to be a good one. It better be, because fights leave an aroma just as bad as Bill Schulz's lions."

That the scraps should be the best ever put on here is promised by Ben M. Becker of the Adirondack division of the A. A. U., who says the boxers on the card are the best available in the simon-pure ranks.

Topping the bill is the match between Joe Wall, New York Golden Glover, and representative of the United States in London when the Americans fought the British, and Matt Peretti, champion of the upstate 120 pounders.

There are four five rounders on the bill, and three three rounders.

Officials will be Bill Singer, Kingston referee; Mort Finch, Kingston, timekeeper; Bill Lester, Albany, and Benny Embinder, Poughkeepsie, boxing promoter, judges.

"Hot Stove" League Is in Full Swing

New York, Oct. 14 (AP)—While World Series heroes are just getting back home, football is filling the sports page headlines and hockey players are beginning practice. Brooklyn's baseball "hot stove" is turning cherry red.

The Dodgers kindled the first spark of the "hot stove" season during the World Series when they dropped Casey Stengel as manager. Now they're being almost swamped by rumors concerning his successor, reports of pending trades and occasional blasts of criticism. In addition, there's the ever-present possibility that the club may be sold.

Leo "Gabby" Hartnett, Chicago Cub catcher, spiked the latest rumor when he assured the Cub management he was not seeking the job as Brooklyn manager and didn't want to leave Chicago. It had been reported he might be sent to the Dodgers in exchange for Van Lingle Mungo, star pitcher, to succeed Stengel as manager. And Owner P. K. Wrigley of the Cubs had said he would not stand in the way of such a deal that would give the veteran an opportunity for advancement.

With Hartnett out of consideration, only about a half-dozen names were left on the list of Brooklyn's prospective managers.

Heading the list are Burleigh Grimes, former star Brooklyn pitcher who piloted the Louisville American Association club last season, and Zach Wheat, another oldtime Flatbush hero. Another report said Third Baseman Joe Stripp has been approached, while the name of Babe Ruth is mentioned frequently.

Ruth is likely to become the No. 1 candidate if the deal for the sale of the club to a syndicate headed by Col. T. L. Huston, former part owner of the Yankees, goes through.

Hurley Gun Club To Meet Thursday

The Hurley Gun Club, which was formed this month, will hold a meeting at the Hurley Town Hall, Thursday night, starting at 8 o'clock, to conduct important business pertaining to the hunting season.

Officers elected at the organization meeting were James Conif, president; Joe Armatier, vice president; West Ten Eyck, secretary-treasurer, and George Dixon, field captain. Vice President Armatier, talking to a reporter, said the club was formed to promote better hunting. Any game law violation will be reported to the authorities by the officers of the organization.

Approximately five square miles of woods and farmland in Hurley have been posted as a game preserve to be stocked and used only by members of the club and friends, taken in to hunt by permission.

About 65 have signed as members of the club.

Kiasmen Aim at Perfection For Mont Pleasant Game on Saturday

Chicago, Oct. 14 (AP)—There'll be a lot of quick-thinking plays "for the book" again this grid season and Bud Wilkinson, the reclaimed Minnesota guard, has one of the first entries.

Wilkinson, six-foot, one-inch, 190-pound youth, quarterbacked the Gophers to their 18th and 19th straight wins over Washington and Nebraska.

But he wasn't always a quarterback, and therein lies a story of the recognition of football intelligence and its justification last Saturday when Bud started the play that kept Minnesota's great winning streak intact with only 68 seconds left to play.

During 1934 and 1935 Wilkinson was a regular guard for Coach Bernie Bierman. Bierman recognized Bud as a player with real football sense, but with backfield talent aplenty, tried him out as a back only during practice late last season.

Came June and the graduation of "Babe" Le Voh, Gopher signal caller. Wilkinson received a sign of Minnesota's plans containing the basic formations—and from that day on he's been Minnesota's regular quarterback.

Last Saturday, for almost 59 minutes the Gophers failed to find an opening in Nebraska's sturdy defense. The cornhuskers were silent. Don Douglas, a Cornhusker reserve, dropped back, punted and apparently it was just a matter of time before the scoreless tie would blot Minnesota's record book.

Wilkinson, taking the ball over his shoulder, stopped, then reversed. Even as he took his second step he was hit hard by Paul Armer, Cornhusker end. Without hesitation, twisting as he fell, he flipped the ball back to Andy Uram on the Minnesota 21. Uram, with the Cornhuskers all pulled around Wilkinson, scampered down the field for the winning touchdown that Bud's headwork made possible.

Against Washington, Wilkinson

pulled just as smart a trick. The Gophers had the ball on their opponents' 10-yard line, first down. Wilkinson, in the huddle, called a line play. Glancing up quickly, he saw the Washington secondary pulled in. Ducking down he snapped: "Check signals!" and a moment later the Gophers executed a pass that won the game.

Little Has His Say On Gridiron Game

New York, Oct. 14 (AP)—Columbia's Lou Little, weary of sectional and technical classifications, said today there are really only two kinds of football—good and bad.

"All this discussion about eastern and western football, open and closed football, Warner and Rockne football, is the bunk," said Little. "It's either good or it's bad."

Little refused to discuss directly the statement of Matty Bell, Southern Methodist coach, that eastern football is five years behind time, commenting:

"I don't want to get into any controversy with Matty or anybody else, but last week's record is pretty clear. They said Francis Schmidt at Ohio State had really developed something new. He had an intricate, deceptive attack featuring lateral and forward passing. But Pitt beat them without using a pass, and after all, Fordham, which plays conservative football, did beat Southern Methodist Saturday."

Little questioned Bell's theory that the forward pass will soon replace the running game as the chief offensive weapon.

"The success of the pass depends a great deal on the threat of the running game. If you have no effective running game, it is easy to stop a passing attack by putting more men into the backfield," he said.

Little's best argument against Bell's claim for passing superiority is the southwest in one Sid Luckman, a 26-year-old sophomore who learned to pass in Brooklyn's park playground.

"He's just a sophomore, but I think he's one of the best passers in the game right now," said Lou Little. "Any rate, he's the best I've ever had, and you'll have to admit Cliff Montgomery was pretty good."

Columbia will pass more this year than ever before, Little remarked. "But just because I happen to have a boy who can throw them, I'm not going to develop a one-sided offense."

Armater Saw Deer On Beatty Farm

Joseph Armater of Hurley, vice president of the Gun Club in that village, and one of Ulster county's better known hunters, who always keeps an eye peeled on the woods as he drives along in his car reported having seen a deer this morning on the Hurley road, near the entrance to the Beatty farm.

"It was a nice one, too," said Armater, "and made a beautiful picture as it stood in the pasture land." "Would it have made a good shot," he was asked.

"Yes, but it was a doe," was his reply.

Mayor Addresses Workers in Boy Scout Campaign

The second report meeting of the Boy Scout campaign workers took place Tuesday evening in the Y. M. C. A. Dinner was served at 6:30 and the meeting was presided over by Chairman Eugene A. Freer. The Rev. A. G. Carroll, pastor of St. James M. E. Church, gave the invocation and after a very fine dinner Scout Executive Wright led the group in some campaign songs.

Chairman Freer then introduced Mayor Conrad J. Heiselein. Mayor Heiselein said he was very happy to be present and to do his part in the task which was ahead, as "in my opinion there is nothing like the Boy Scout program to train boys to think right and to be right." The mayor went on to say that the cost of taking care of juvenile delinquents is extremely high, in fact, it will cost this year over $1000 for every boy that is kept in the W. Coxackie Institution, while it costs but $10 per boy per year to maintain the Scout organization in this territory. Further, there is no better insurance policy that a community can have than that of supporting adequately the program of Scouting. The mayor said that he believed that the proper promotion and support of the Boy Scout program was a challenge to every thinking citizen in the city of Kingston because of its investment in future citizenship, which is something very much needed. The mayor in closing said he hoped every one would have good luck and success in their part of the goal which had been set and he was sure if every one did their part the goal would be reached.

Chairman Freer, thanked the mayor for his talk and the fine spirit that he demonstrated.

Deaconess Tells Of Missionary Work

The Woman's Auxiliary of St. John's Episcopal Church met at the home of Miss Ida Kerr and Mrs. Frederick Warren on Albany avenue on Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Howe, the president of the auxiliary, presiding and leading the meeting.

Following the business session, Deaconess Margaret Boos of Nevada, a friend of Mrs. Howe who is now on her vacation in the east, was the interesting speaker of the afternoon. "The deaconess who has a particularly winsome personality, told of the pioneer work with young people in Nevada, especially the Girls' Friendly Society both of which she has charge in Lyon county, living at Yerington in a little home which is connected with the church there.

Deaconess Boos told of being sent to Yerington to take the place of the teacher and leader who had been sent to another field. She found that church school was being attended by the children of the surrounding country according as the deaconess in charge took her own car and, so to speak, rounded them up.

Then the speaker made vivid the difference in the wide-spaced west with its people from strange lands and neighborhoods, so often on the move, and the established, closely built and organized east. One family with their children lived in four towns within one school semester, greatly to the disadvantage of the children, but necessary if the father was to find any work at all.

In this connection the deaconess said that if Bishop Jenkins had not been missionary-minded there would have been very little church and church school life in the thousands of square miles in his great diocese. As she expressed it, "The country was most free from religion, and in the homes there was, in so many instances, no family life." She found children 10 and 12 years old who had never heard of the Lord's Prayer.

The speaker then went on to tell of the work of Bishop Jenkins and in reply to a question as to the greatest boon of expense in carrying on this Christian enterprise, she said it was for gas and the upkeep of their cars without which little if anything could be accomplished. The bishop met infrequently had to drive 200 miles between services on the Sunday and that over anything but good roads. When he held as many as three or four Easter services, if the first church where he held service was so fortunate as to have Easter Noon on the altar (and he not infrequently was the donor) he carefully wrapped them up and took them with him on to the next church and so on until the last service had been held.

Once a year the members of the bishop's staff, deaconesses and others met at the bishop's home for a conference on ways and means and when they found that there was a deficit in the travel fund, even the staff members gave out of their salaries to raise an extra hundred dollars or so to keep the wheels going.

The deaconess then went on to tell of the work of the Girls' Friendly Society at Yerington, where she is now stationed, and of the tiny chapel parish room and her tiny home in the rear of the church. It was there that a little boy seeing the cross that was to be placed on the church was asked what it was. He replied "A propeller."

It was also interesting to hear of the Church Service League made up of women from other churches all of whom labored together with the little St. Albans for the good of the neighborhood.

Then coming directly to her own work, Deaconess Boos told of many personal incidents and happenings that deeply impressed the people present with the Christianizing efforts for those so far away not only from us here in the East, but from each other.

Again she told of work with the Piute Indians for whom separate services were held, because in their interest they would bring their entire families to the services and that would overfill the little churches.

In closing Deaconess Boos told the women present what a vast amount of good, of loving service for Christ was made possible and only possible by the gifts of money from the little blue mite boxes which they gave as their United Thank Offering. By that means it was possible to carry the Light of Christ farther and farther to those near without that light, mate and so most revealing task, for was served by the deaconess, Mrs. G. N. Wood and Mrs. Grace Burgett presiding at the tea table after which a silver collection was taken.
